NEWS WORTH SHARING.

Ground offensive in Gaza begins

Middle East conflict. Israeli operations include soldiers, air support and naval forces, a military spokesman said

Thousands of Israeli soldiers backed by tanks invaded the Gaza Strip on Thursday, escalating a 10-day campaign of heavy air bombardment to try to destroy Hamas' weapons arsenal, rocket-firing abilities and tunnels used to send militants from the Palestinian territory into Israel.

Gaza health officials said seven Palestinians were killed in the early stage of the ground operation, including a three-month-old boy who died after a shell hit his family's Bedouin tent in southern Gaza.

Israel had become increasingly exasperated with unrelenting rocket fire, especially following Hamas' rejection of an Egyptian ceasefire plan earlier in the week.

However, a ground offensive could quickly lead to military and political entanglements for Israel. More than 240 Palestinians have already died in the air campaign, including 14 children under age 12 killed over the past two days, according to Palestinian health officials. One Israeli also died and several were wounded by Hamas rocket fire since July 8.

Hamas struck a defiant tone Thursday. A spokesman, Fawzi Barhoum, said Israel "will pay dearly" for the assault, its first major ground offensive in Gaza since January 2009. "Hamas is ready for a confrontation," he said.

The Israeli offensive began around 10 p.m. Thursday Israeli time. The military said it was open-ended and would be carried out on several fronts in the coastal strip.

"Large ground forces accompanied by massive air-force support, naval forces and intelligence are taking over targets in Gaza, operating against tunnels and terror activists and infrastructure," said chief military spokesman Brig. Gen. Motti Almoz.

He called on Gaza residents to evacuate targeted areas, warning the "military is operating there with very great force."

As troops crossed into Gaza, the heavy thud of tank shells at intervals of just a few seconds could be heard across Gaza City.

An official in the Gaza security operations room said all of Gaza's border areas were being shelled and that Hamas fighters were exchanging fire with Israeli troops near the northern Gaza town of Beit Hanoun.

A resident of the northern town of Beit Lahiya, Jamal Abu Samra, said he was taking cover from the shelling by huddling on the ground floor of his home with his wife, six kids and two dozen other relatives.

Israeli government spokesman Mark Regev said the operation was focused on the tunnels dug by Hamas under the Gaza-Israel border. Earlier Thursday, 13 heavily armed Hamas militants had tried to sneak into Israel through such a tunnel but were stopped by an airstrike at the mouth of the tunnel.

"For Israel to send ground forces into Gaza is not a light decision. Ultimately we understand the risks involved both for our own soldiers and the dangers of escalation," he said. "But we felt this was necessary ... to deal with this strategic threat posed by those tunnels, which can allow terrorists to infiltrate into Israel and cause mass death."

While the ultimate scale of Israel's ambition remained unclear, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu had come under growing domestic pressure to ratchet up Israel's response to rocket fire that 10 days of airstrikes had failed to stem.

Israel accepted an Egyptian ceasefire proposal Tuesday, but Hamas rejected it. Similarly, Hamas ended a "humanitarian lull" of several hours Thursday by immediately resuming rocket fire.

Welcome to The 6, home to fanboy No. 1, Mr. Drizzy

#JimmyPrimeNamedit.
His buddy comes up with a new title for the city, Drake puts it on his album cover and 'gives the city sex appeal'

Hogtown. The Big Smoke. Hotronto. T-Dot.

The 6?

Toronto-born rapper Drake sent our city of many names tail-spinning into an identity crisis Tuesday with the announcement of his upcoming album, Views From The 6.

Rumours abounded on social media about the obscure title, reported by Billboard Magazine. It is largely touted as another nod by the rapper to his hometown by way of its two main area codes, 416 and 647.

Some users loved it, adopting it in hashtag form to accompany photos of the city. Others, not so much.

Haters gonna hate. Right, Drizzy?

It is not the first time Drake has publicly hyped Toronto's newest nickname.

In early March, a photo of Toronto featuring the CN Tower was posted to the rapper's official Instagram account, @Champagnepapi, accompanied by the caption, "I miss the 6!!! #Toronto #JimmyPrimeNamedIt #The6 #Home #SummerInToronto #Paradise."

Jimmy Prime, also known as Jimmy Johnson, is a local Toronto rapper who released his first album, In God We Trust, earlier this year. The first record from the project, Pray, debuted on Drake's record label October's Very Own's website in late March. The nine-track EP makes multiple references to the slang.

Roland Broere, co-owner of Rock Paper Management in Toronto, said up-and-coming rapper Johnson coined the term months before Drake used it. The 6 has gone mainstream in the local music industry since Drake's Instagram post.

"I hear it every day," Broere said.

People know Drake is from Toronto, Broere said, but it's significant that the rapper chose to include The 6 in his album title.

"That immortalizes it in a completely different way than just regular slang. I actually think it will have a bigger impact than ever before. I'd go so far as to say that maybe it's the post-millennial T-Dot."

Peddling The 6 isn't the first time Drake, who was born in Forest Hill, has had a hand in rebranding. This spring, he played a large part in the Toronto Raptors' We The North playoff campaign, narrating a commercial, wearing Raptors' swag and, of course, sparking the team's first lint-rolling promotion.

Place-branding is the fastest-growing area of interest in branding, with countries, regions, provinces and towns fighting the same battles for attention and differentiation as products in the grocery store do, says Alan Middleton, a professor of marketing in York University's Schulich School of Business.

Toronto has been wimpy about place-branding, making it a hidden gem, Middleton said.

"The problem with hidden gems is you can get missed over for investment, you can get missed over for tourism and you can get missed over in terms of what your citizens think about you, so a little bit of a star's sex appeal always works."

Star power

Drake is making Toronto sexy, said Alan Middleton, a professor of marketing in York University's Schulich School of Business.

"Because of his music background and his connections through various networks, he begins to get Toronto popping up just a little bit more than it used to be, so it gives the city sex appeal."

Umbrage at umbrellas.
Ford calls for Waterfront Toronto CEO to resign

Mayor Rob Ford called a news conference Thursday to discuss spending at Waterfront Toronto, including an earlier report that a permanent washroom at Cherry Beach Sports Field cost $600,000. According to Waterfront Toronto, the washroom opened in May 2012.

Ford has also stated his displeasure with two giant rocks and 36 fiberglass umbrellas costing $900,000. He claimed last week that spending for the project was approved during his absence in rehab.

As the mayor called for Waterfront Toronto's president and CEO John Campbell to resign — saying the organization had "complete lack of respect for taxpayers' money" — he denied he had any oversight of the board and that he could not get any answers on costs.

In a news release, Waterfront Toronto outlined the way it operates, saying it is directly accountable to federal, provincial and municipal governments.

"We are certain council is aware of the unique operational oversight and control that the City of Toronto has maintained over Waterfront Toronto for the last 11 years," Campbell was quoted as saying in the release. "All our projects are vetted by city staff and the capital plan is approved in advance by city council."

Ford avoided several questions, including some about late nights at city hall and a formal complaint filed for allegedly hurling racial slurs.

Ford on the board

According to Waterfront Toronto, Ford has had a seat on the board since he was elected. Only in 2012 did Ford designate Coun. Jaye Robinson to sit on the board. Between December 2010 and November 2012, Ford did not attend any board meetings, according to meeting minutes during that period.

Another T.O. daycare being squeezed by for-profit chain

Little Prints. Non-profit centre in North York risks losing its lease since Kids and Company offered more rent to landlord

Rachel Bar and daughter Miriam, 14 months, inside Little Prints Daycare on Thursday. RICK MADONIK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

For the second time this summer, parents at a high-quality daycare in Toronto are facing the loss of their beloved centre because a for-profit child-care chain wants the space and is willing to pay more rent.

North York Little Prints Daycare, a non-profit centre in a commercial building at Yonge Street and York Mills Boulevard, opened 20 years ago with more than $300,000 in capital grants from the city and Queen's Park.

The daycare's previous landlords offered free rent so the centre could keep parent fees affordable and provide a high-quality service to building tenants, said parent Neil MacCarthy, whose two daughters attend Little Prints.

But ever since current landlord Manulife was approached by the Kids and Company chain earlier this year, everything has changed, MacCarthy said.

As a result, Little Prints is being asked to take on more space that would require $250,000 in retrofit costs as well as annual rent charges of about $130,000. That is in addition to $170,000 a year the daycare already pays for property taxes and utilities.

The daycare hopes its offer to pay some rent will convince the landlord to let it stay.

"We can't pay as much as what the for-profit company is offering, but we think there is value in our long-standing connection to the community and our high-quality program," said MacCarthy, who is also a member of the daycare's board.

Earlier this week, George Brown College's Scotia Plaza daycare, in the financial district, learned it also stands to lose its lease to Kids and Company, which offers spots only to employees of companies that pay annual memberships starting at about $5,000.

Since for-profit daycares aren't eligible for city child-care subsidies, low-income families at both Scotia Plaza and Little Prints would be shut out if Kids and Company takes over.

"I don't know what we'll do if we lose this spot," said Little Prints parent Rachel Bar, one of about 20 subsidized parents in the 85-space centre that serves children from birth to five years old. She and her husband are both graduate students and can't afford to continue full-time studies without a daycare subsidy, she said.

"It just doesn't seem right that a daycare business can push out a high-quality non-profit centre," said Bar, whose 14-month-old daughter Rachel started at the centre six months ago.

Kids and Company, which began with one centre in the Toronto area in 2002, has nearly 60 sites across Canada and the United States and has created "thousands" of daycare spots employing more than 400 staff in the GTA, said spokesperson Linda Starr.

Relaxed food truck rules paying off for foodies in search of street eats

Parking lot 'hubs.'
Mobile eateries bypass restrictive city permit, sell to bigger crowds

Food trucks occupy a private parking lot Thursday near Adelaide on Morrison Avenue, instead of coughing up a hefty fee to park on the street. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Could Toronto's much criticized food truck rules finally be working? It seems so, but not exactly the way city council may have expected.

Two downtown food truck "hubs" opened this month, one in a parking lot at Queen and Jarvis and another on Morrison near King and Spadina.

Because these trucks are parked on private lots, they are exempt from the pricey permits required for those that park on the street.

A loophole? Actually, it's part of the city's plan.

This is the first summer that vending in parking lots has been legal; before May 15, mobile eateries were allowed to set up shop in a parking lot for just 10 minutes at a time, a rule left over from the heyday of coffee trucks. The time ban was lifted by council in an April vote.

This change in city rules is catching on with vendors faster than the better-known part of the food truck strategy: those maligned $5,067 annual "roaming" permits, of which only 12 have been sold so far. Permit holders are restricted from setting up within 50 metres of a restaurant; trucks in private lots are not.

While Toronto food trucks were already serving lunch at several downtown lots, the two new locales aim to become permanent fixtures that serve dinner, lunch and late-night grub.

"The turnout was phenomenal," said Savera Hashmi, owner of cupcake truck Pretty Sweet. "It was a lot of foot traffic."

For Hashmi, vending in the parking lot makes more sense than buying a street permit. Her cupcake truck takes up two parking spots, adding an extra layer of difficulty to finding a space that obeys city rules: "Logistically it did not make sense to me. And it's expensive — $5,000!" TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Trial runs

Both new hubs, nicknamed "Toronto Food Truck Alley" and "King Street Eats," are trial runs intended to gauge whether the hubs can attract enough customers to be viable. Food truck owners pool together to rent the private lots, with a revolving door of trucks stopping by throughout the week. In Hamilton, a similar food truck alley has seen early success.

Group looks to smoke out stores selling drug stuff

The Ontario Safety League urged the Liberal government Thursday to crack down on corner stores that sell crack-pipes, bongs, grinders and other drug paraphernalia by taking away their right to sell lottery tickets.

"If the convenience stores are forced to choose between the lucrative sale of lottery tickets and selling drug paraphernalia contrary to the Criminal Code, I believe they'll chose lottery tickets," said league president Brian Patterson.

However, Finance Minister Charles Sousa insisted the government was powerless to order Ontario Lottery and Gaming to remove a store from its approved list of retailers unless there has been a criminal conviction, even though the province is the only shareholder in the agency.

"We don't have a mechanism within the system with which to remove lottery terminals unless they've broken the law," he said.

"That's the only way we can do this."

The 101-year-old safety organization recently sent teenage volunteers into 16 convenience stores in southern Ontario, and each was able to buy drug paraphernalia associated with illegal drug use or abuse of prescription drugs.

Bongs for sale at a Seattle store.
TED S. WARREN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The results were astounding," said Patterson. "Each and every store that sold bongs sold them to a 17-year-old, no questions asked."

The situation hasn't improved since the league did similar visits to a larger number of retailers last summer, added Patterson, who said only 15 per cent of corner stores sell the illegal drug-related products, and it's never the big-name chain stores. Some have started selling small, digital weight scales favoured by drug dealers.

"I don't think they've got them for measuring postage," he said.

Some bongs can sell for up to $70 — always for cash — and are a high-profit item for stores because they often get the products on consignment, said Patterson.

"Somebody who wants to have drug paraphernalia in the community is offering them up for free and then they're splitting the (profits) when they sell," he said.

America. Campaigning politician gets into a jam showing gun bona fides

If guns are a run-of-the-mill prop for politicians in the United States, it was perhaps only a matter of time before things backfired on someone this campaign season.

A candidate in this fall's congressional elections had to yank down an online video in which he used a pump-action shotgun to blow up a pinata of an elephant — the logo of the Republican party.

It was the hint of political violence that people disliked, not the use of a shotgun in Estakio Beltran's campaign ad. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don't shoot the elephant

For those running in rural areas of the U.S. like Democrat Estakio Beltran, being photographed with a gun is almost a prerequisite for office, like kissing babies.

Cops not amused by pizza prank

Police in southern Kentucky say they got a surprise delivery after charging a man with shoplifting — five pizzas showed up at the station. Cops say Michael Harp, 29, asked to make a call on his cell while being booked. A short time later a pizza delivery driver showed up for the officer who arrested Harp. Police say they linked the call to Harp by tracking his cell. But Harp said "10 people'' used his phone. Still, he faces other charges: theft of identity, theft by deception, and impersonating a cop. Recovered mayor?

Rob Ford 'guarantees' that the wish of his enemies that he fall off the wagon just won't happen

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is declaring himself "sober as a judge" and "healthy as a horse."

For the first time since Ford completed two months in rehab, he took questions about his substance abuse from journalists at large. He previously said in a handful of interviews that he couldn't guarantee he won't relapse, only that he's taking his recovery one day at a time.

But he was more declarative Thursday when asked when the last time was that he drank or did drugs.

"A lot of people really wish that I'm going to fail, that I'm going to drink and that I'm going to do drugs," Ford said. "Unfortunately, that wish will not come true. That wish, guaranteed, will not come true because I'm as sober as a judge and I'm moving forward, running this city and saving taxpayers money."

Ford said he knows people are watching his every move, and that they should continue doing so because his "biggest move" will be on Oct. 27, when he believes he will be re-elected as mayor. A sobriety coach who had been trailing Ford has moved on, he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NEW STREETCARS BRING THE TTC A STEP CLOSER TO FULL ACCESSIBILITY

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

In just six weeks, Toronto's new streetcar enters service on the 510 Spadina route. The TTC is, of course, focused on achieving a smooth launch.

For the past 18 months, we have been conducting exhaustive tests on every aspect of the new vehicle and on all the routes that it will serve. The test program included cold weather trials, both in Ottawa (at the National Research Council's vehicle testing facility) and here in Toronto during a particularly harsh winter.

We have put our test vehicles through thousands of kilometres of trials, covering every inch of the Toronto streetcar network. Each test has been documented and used to fine tune the design of the final production units.

In parallel, an extensive training program is underway to ensure that our operators, supervisors and carhouse staff are competent and confident to operate a vehicle quite different from that to which they are used to today.

At the same time, TTC crews have worked to upgrade overhead wiring to provide the additional power for the air conditioning and other passenger comforts that are a feature of our new fleet.

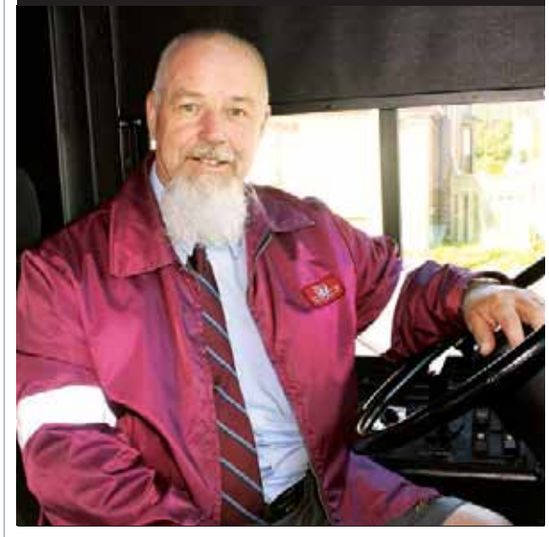
Working with the City, we have also carried out modifications to streetcar islands and curbs to facilitate the ramp that makes the streetcar fully accessible. We have consulted with ACAT, our advisory committee for accessible transit, to ensure that our processes are fit for purpose and fully understood by operators and customers alike.

Our city can be rightly proud that we are progressively moving towards a fully accessible transit system. Our bus and subway fleets are already fully accessible and we have installed elevators at approximately half of our subway stations, with the balance due to be upgraded by 2025. The one big obstacle remains our streetcars, but this will be rectified with the roll-out of the full 204-strong fleet in by 2019.

The new streetcar marks a milestone in our ongoing program to modernize the TTC. We are determined to get it right.

• Congratulations to the Halton County Radial Railway in Milton (hcry.org), which is celebrating its 60th anniversary with many special events on Saturday, July 19.

EMPLOYEE PROFILE



Name:	Position:	Years of Service:
David Pearson	Bus Operator	30

There is a lot more to being a bus operator than just driving a bus and pushing buttons. A lot of safety and technical training is involved in order to provide safe, reliable service. Having moved from streetcars to bus, I've always enjoyed working outside. I take pride in providing good customer service and am always entertained. I could write a book based on how much I have seen during my working hours. I love it!

MEET YOUR NEW RIDE, TORONTO!

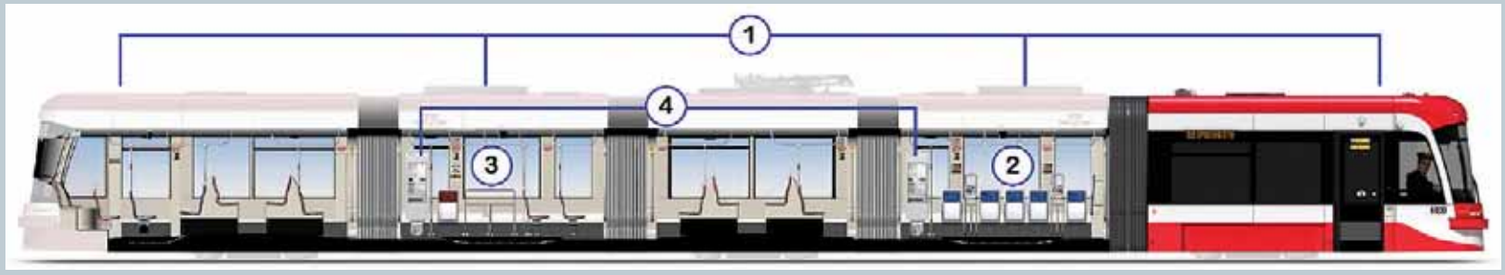
Key Features

The TTC's new low-floor streetcars, set to enter service on the 510 Spadina route on August 31, will provide a more comfortable ride for commuters. The modern, spacious vehicles boast impressive new features including all-door boarding, a clearly marked area for mobility devices, a bicycle storage area, single ride vending machines, air conditioning, and a smoother, quieter ride.

Here's a closer look:

1. Four doors provide faster boarding.
2. Mobile Device/Priority Seating area creates full accessibility.
3. Bicycle Storage Area.
4. Single Ride Vending Machines.

For more information on the new low-floor streetcar, visit facebook.com/StreetcarTO, Twitter @StreetcarTO, or newstreetcars.ttc.ca



505 DUNDAS AND 504 KING STREETCARS TO DIVERT FOR TTC WORK

The Toronto Transit Commission will be conducting streetcar track and overhead wire work on Broadview Avenue, between Broadview Station and Queen St. E. from July 20 to August 30. As a result, buses will replace streetcars on Broadview Ave. between Queen St. E. and Danforth Ave.

504 King streetcars will divert via Parliament St., Dundas St. E., Broadview Ave., Queen St. E., Parliament St., to route. 505 Dundas streetcars divert via Parliament St., Gerrard St., and Broadview Ave. to route. A 504/505 replacement bus will provide service on Broadview Ave., between Broadview Station and Queen St. E.

WEEKEND LINE 2 CLOSURE – KIPLING TO ISLINGTON

On Saturday, July 19, and Sunday, July 20, there will be no subway service from Kipling to Islington stations on Line 2 (Bloor-Danforth) due to scheduled track work. Frequent shuttle buses will operate between Kipling and Islington Stations, with Wheel-Trans buses available to accommodate customers who use wheelchairs, scooters and other mobility aids. Regular subway service resumes on Monday, July 21.

BROADVIEW AND QUEEN TRACK WORK COMPLETED EARLY

The TTC has completed streetcar track upgrades at Queen St. E. and Broadview Ave. one week earlier than scheduled. As a result, all streetcars (501, 301, 502, 503, and 504) will return to regular routing through Broadview Ave. on Saturday, July 19, at approximately 3 p.m. This is the last of three major intersection closures on Queen St. E. during the past two months, with infrastructure and track upgrades having been previously completed at Victoria and Leslie Streets.

The TTC thanks all of its customers, as well as businesses and residents in Riverside and Leslieville, for their patience during this construction period. Investment in infrastructure is critically important in keeping the TTC moving.

Glancing at the past

Similar tragedies in history

As unthinkable as shooting down an airliner with hundreds of passengers is, it has happened before. Among the most recent notable cases were an Iranian plane shot down by the U.S. Navy and a South Korean airliner destroyed by a Russian fighter jet.

Oct. 4, 2001: An errant surface-to-air missile fire by the Ukrainian military during exercises in Crimea causes the crash of an Air Siberia airliner en route from Tel Aviv to Novosibirsk. All 78 people on board were killed.

Oct. 20, 1998: Rebels in eastern Congo shoot down a Congo Airlines passenger jet carrying 40 people. The plane crashes into a densely forested area just outside of Kindu, east of Kinshasa.

July 3, 1988: U.S. warship Vincennes shoots down an Iranian passenger plane over the Persian Gulf, mistaking it for a threatening warplane, during the war between Iraq and Iran. All 290 people aboard are killed.

April 10, 1988: Afghan guerrillas shoot down a Soviet-built passenger jet, killing all 29 people aboard. Soviet television condemns the incident, after announcements that a negotiated end to the 10-year-old Afghan war is near.

Sept. 1, 1983: A Soviet fighter jet shoots down a Korean Air Lines passenger jet en route from New York to Seoul, purportedly mistaking the craft for a spy plane as it wandered into Soviet airspace west of Sakhalin Island. All 269 people aboard are killed. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Smoke rises up at the crash site of a passenger plane, near the village of Hrabove,

298 killed shot down

No survivors. U.S. authorities say Malaysia Airlines jet was brought down by a missile, but have not determined where it came from Ukraine accused pro-Russian separatists of shooting down a Malaysian jetliner with 298 people aboard Thursday, sharply escalating the crisis and threatening to draw both East and West deeper into the conflict. The rebels denied downing the aircraft.

American intelligence authorities believe a surface-to-air missile brought the plane down but were still working on who fired the missile and whether it came from the Russian or Ukrainian side of the border, a U.S. official said.

Bodies, debris and burning wreckage of the Boeing 777 were strewn over a field near the rebel-held village of Hrabove in the Donetsk region of eastern Ukraine, about 40 kilometres from the Russian border, where fighting has raged for months.

The aircraft appeared to have broken up before impact, and there were large pieces of the plane that bore the red, white and blue markings of Malaysia Airlines — now familiar worldwide because of the carrier's still-missing jetliner from earlier this year.

The cockpit and one of the turbines lay at a distance of one kilometre from one another. Residents said the tail was about 10 kilometres farther away. Rescue workers planted sticks with white flags in spots where they found human remains.

There was no sign of any survivors from Flight 17, which took off shortly after noon Thursday from Amsterdam to Kuala Lumpur with 298 passengers, including three infants, and a crew of 15. Malaysia's prime minister said there was no distress call before the plane went down and that the flight route was declared safe by the International Civil Aviation Organization.

President Petro Poroshenko called it an "act of terrorism" and demanded an international investigation. He insisted his forces did not shoot down the plane.

Ukraine's security services produced what they said were two intercepted telephone conversations that showed rebels were responsible. In the first call, the security services said, rebel commander Igor Bezler tells a Russian military intelligence officer that rebel forces shot down a plane.

after flight in Ukraine

'Tragedy'

"This tragedy would not have happened if there were peace on this land, if the military actions had not been renewed in southeast Ukraine." Russian President Vladimir Putin

In the second call, two rebel fighters — one of them at the crash scene — say the rocket attack was carried out by a unit of insurgents about 25 kilometres north of the site. Neither recording could be independently verified.

Earlier in the week, the rebels had claimed responsibility for shooting down two Ukrainian military planes.

President Barack Obama called the crash a "terrible tragedy" and spoke by phone with Russian President Vladimir Putin as well as Poroshenko. Britain asked for an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council on Ukraine.

The different nationalities of the dead would bring Ukraine's conflict to parts of the globe that were never touched by it before.

Safety experts say they're concerned that because the plane crashed in an area of Ukraine that is in dispute, political considerations could affect the investigation.

The RIA-Novosti agency quoted rebel leader Alexander Borodai as saying talks were underway with Ukrainian authorities on calling a short truce for humanitarian reasons. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canadian aboard flight

An official with Malaysia Airlines says at least one Canadian was among the 298 people aboard Malaysia Airlines flight 17.

Huib Gorter, the airline's senior VP, says that among the known nationalities, the majority — 154 people — were Dutch, while 45 people were Malaysian. Authorities are trying to determine the nationalities of 41 passengers.

A double tragedy for Malaysia Airlines

Jos Nijhuis, President and CEO of Schiphol THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Boeing 777s. Two incredibly rare aviation disasters. And one airline. In what appears to be a mind-boggling coincidence, Malaysia is reeling from the second tragedy to hit its national airline in less than five months.

On March 8, a Malaysia Airlines jetliner vanished about an hour after taking off from Kuala Lumpur, spawning an international mystery that remains unsolved. On Thursday, the airline — and the nation — were pitched into another crisis after the same type of aircraft was reported shot down over Ukraine after leaving Schiphol airport in Amsterdam.

Ukraine said the plane was brought down by a missile over the violence-wracked eastern part of the country. Other details were only just beginning to emerge. But what's certain is that the struggling airline and the nation must now prepare for another agonizing encounter with grief, recriminations, international scrutiny and serious legal and diplomatic implications.

"This is a tragic day in what has already been a tragic year for Malaysia," Malaysian Prime Minister Najib Razak said.

Officials said the plane was shot down at an altitude of 10,000 metres. Najib said that if the plane was indeed shot down, "we insist that the perpetrators must swiftly be brought to justice." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Calgary. Civilian searchers vow to continue efforts to locate boy, grandparents

Organizers say they'll continue their civilian search for signs of a missing five-year-old Calgary boy and his grandparents after earlier calling it off because of a social media backlash.

Matt Forseth says organizers decided to cancel the search when some questioned whether they might actually be hindering the police investigation.

But he says they changed their minds Wednesday after more than 100 people showed up to help and investigators approved their efforts.

The volunteers have been scouring rural areas near the community of Airdrie for signs of Alvin and Kathryn Liknes and Nathan O'Brien, who disappeared in late June.

Douglas Garland, who lived on an acreage near Airdrie, has been charged with three counts of murder, even though the bodies have not been found. THE CANADIAN PRESS

He's doing well: Lawyer

Khadr willing to stay in federal prison

Omar Khadr will remain in a federal prison.

Khadr, a former Guantanamo Bay detainee, has agreed to a stay of a decision by Alberta's top court that ruled he should be serving his sentence as a youth and be transferred to a provincial jail.

His lawyers say he's willing to remain at the federal Bowden Institution in central Alberta because he's doing well there, and they believe he'll still be able to apply to a youth court judge for release.

Khadr pleaded guilty in 2010 to war-crimes charges, including murder, for killing a U.S. soldier in Afghanistan when he was 15.

RCMP charges Mike Duffy with fraud and bribery

Senate scandal. Spokesman for PM Harper calls suspended senator's alleged behaviour 'disgraceful'

With his folksy style and passion for politics, Mike Duffy became a household name as a veteran television journalist — a career that led him to a coveted Conservative seat in Parliament's upper chamber.

All that came crashing down Thursday as the RCMP laid 31 charges of fraud, breach of trust and bribery against the suspended senator.

The charges involve Duffy's claims for living expenses, claims for travel expenses unconnected with Senate business and fraudulent contracts, said RCMP's assistant commissioner, Gilles Michaud. They also cover a $90,000 payment Duffy allegedly received from Nigel Wright, the prime minister's former chief of staff.

Mike Duffy arrives on Parliament Hill in October 2013. The RCMP have laid 31 charges against the suspended senator. ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Convictions on the charges could result in a prison sentence. The bribery count carries a maximum of 14 years.

Duffy's first court appearance is set for Sept. 16, the day after Parliament is scheduled to resume.

Donald Bayne, Duffy's lawyer, said when the full story is told, it will be clear Duffy is innocent of any wrongdoing.

"Those — including many in the media — who have been so eager and quick over the past year and a half to malign and even libel Sen. Duffy without his ever having had a fair hearing, should slow down their rush to judgment and let fair process determine this matter."

The behaviour outlined in the RCMP charges against Duffy is "disgraceful," a spokesman for Stephen Harper said Thursday.

"We assisted the RCMP throughout their investigation, and congratulate them on the progress they have made," Jason MacDonald said in a statement. "Those who break the rules must suffer the consequences. The conduct described in the numerous charges against Mr. Duffy is disgraceful."

2015 election

Duffy affair an X factor for Tories

Prime Minister Stephen Harper has a new political opponent to contend with heading into the 2015 election, when suspended Conservative senator Mike Duffy will have his day in court on 31 charges ranging from bribery to breach of trust in relation to alleged misuses of public funds.

The legal machinations could very well unfold in the run-up to the federal election scheduled for the fall of next year, keeping the details alive in the headlines. The speed of the ensuing trial will have political strategists making their calculations.

Lean and mean. Microsoft slashes jobs, boosts stock

Microsoft is cutting up to 18,000 jobs, about 14 per cent of its staff, over the next year as it works to cut down on management layers and integrate the Nokia devices business it bought in April.

The news sent Microsoft's stock up three per cent in premarket trading.

Although the job cuts had been expected, the extent of them was a surprise. It's the boldest move by CEO Satya Nadella since he took the reins from Steve Ballmer in February. In a public email to employees Thursday, he said the changes were needed for the company to "become more agile and move faster."

Of the job cuts, about 12,500 professional and factory jobs will be cut. Microsoft expects charges of $1.1 billion to $1.6 billion over the next four quarters, which includes $750 million to $800 million for severance and related benefit costs.

Microsoft has been shifting its focus from traditional PC software to cloud computing and cloud-based products, such as its Office 365 productivity software.

Tim Hortons brewing some innovative ideas

Coffee klatch. Iconic Canadian chain brainstorms new ideas in response to competition

Marc Caira, right, president and CEO of Tim Hortons and David Clanachan, COO of Tim Hortons, order coffee in a prototype of a Tim Hortons "Restaurant of the Future" at the company's owners conference in Toronto on Wednesday.

DARREN CALABRESE/ THE CANADIAN PRESS

If a pint of coffee-flavoured beer gets you salivating, then Tim Hortons has a few other ideas that could change how you think about the restaurant chain.

Executives have lifted the curtain on a new concept store, buried deep inside the Metro Toronto Convention Centre, as part of an invite-only convention this week for store owners and suppliers that is essentially a visual brainstorming session.

Redefining itself in the highly competitive food services industry will be a challenge for a mainstay brand like Tim Hortons, but as more companies try to encroach on its dominant position in the Canadian coffee market it's not like there's much of a choice but to find ways to be different.

Certainly there were plenty of ideas to chew on — some even controversial.

Consider the beer taps that pour brews inspired by Tim Hortons' trademark coffee flavour — and a strawberry lager for the sweeter tooths. Or how about a unisex washroom that features a communal sink?

WHO'S HER DADDY? ALLEGEDLY DUFFY

THE METRO LIST

Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

It's time to check into the week's trendiest news ... or is that the week's newsiest trends? I get so confused.

1 The 13th Step is the Hardest. Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is back from rehab and is trying, with mixed results, to get back in the game. It's getting so bad that Marion Barry, the former crack-smoking mayor of Washington, D.C., says Ford is "making a fool of himself" and he's tired of people making comparisons.

2 He Ain't Heavy; He's My, Er, Dad: Speaking of XXXL politicians, star-crossed Sen. Mike Duffy is having a rough week. RCMP has laid 31 charges of fraud and breach of trust against him related to the Senate expense scandal. And if that doesn't put him off his feed, he finds himself fending off a paternity lawsuit from a 32-year-old woman who says he's her real dad. According to Maclean's, Karen Duffy sprang from an affair Duffy had with a convicted Peruvian drug smuggler who served time at a Kingston prison. Just writing that sentence gives me goosebumps.

3 You Can Go Home Again. Especially if they're paying you $21,573,398 US a year to do so. After four years as the cornerstone of the Miami Heat, Ohio native LeBron James is going back to Cleveland where he started his NBA career, saying that he hopes to be a Cavalier for the rest of his career. Miami. Cleveland. Cleveland. Miami. What's to choose?

4 Duh. A California judge has declared the death penalty unconstitutional — probably because if you're a judge, you can't just call something stupid. You have to get legal and call it unconstitutional. But his argument is a bit creepy, to say the least. The state, he opines, is breaking a solemn promise, i.e. to kill the condemned prisoner. Of the 900 sent to death row in California since 1978, only 13 have been executed. "For too long," the judge wrote, "the promise has been an empty one." Inmate to judge: I'm OK with that.

5 Death by Amoeba. In more unfunny news, a nine-year-old Kansas girl has been killed by a brain-eating amoeba called Naegleria fowleri. Lurking in the lake or the swimming hole, it goes up through your nose and heads for your brain … and starts eating. It's extremely rare, but of the 130 people who have been infected over the last 50 years, only three have survived. Just when you thought it was safe to go back in the water.

6 What's Wrong with a Pony? Jeremiah Heaton, a doting dad from Virginia, gets the Enabler of the Week Award. His daughter Emily — like many a seven-year-old girl — is obsessed with princesses. So Dad hops on a plane and lands on an unclaimed patch of desert between Egypt and Sudan, where he plants the family flag (designed by the kids: blue background with a seal and stars), claiming it as The Kingdom of North Sudan, so Emily will one day be a real princess. Imagine if some guy from the Sudan tried that trick in Death Valley. We hope that Emily is amused, at least.

A Vodou pilgrim scrubs himself with tree leaves to give him good luck, as he gets ready to cleanse himself in a waterfall believed to have purifying powers during the annual celebration in Saut d'Eau, Haiti.

Vodou pilgrims head to the waters to pay tribute to patron saint

Followers of Haiti's most celebrated patron saint, Our Lady of Mount Carmel, gather at the Saut d'Eau waterfall every summer to pay tribute and make requests.

This year, worshippers performed Voodoo cleansing rituals in the water, stripping off their clothes and using leaves to wash away bad luck and their sins.

They also petitioned the saint to improve their lives.

Lionel Saint-Jean said that after losing his house in Haiti's catastrophic 2010 quake, he asked the saint for a new one and got it.

"So I came this year to thank her for that," Saint-Jean said.

Thousands come to Saut d'Eau every year to honor the virgin.

Voodoo, or Vodou as many practitioners prefer, evolved from West African beliefs and adopted elements of Roman Catholicism.

A tree grew in Haiti

The Saut d'Eau area holds cultural significance in Haiti, to both Catholic and Vodou practitioners.

- It is believed that the Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel appeared on a palm tree there in the 19th century.
- A French priest, afraid of the superstition this would inspire, cut the tree down, but it nonetheless became an important religious destination for Haitians.

Like Iggy Azalea, minus the appropriation

ANDREW FIFIELD

We're halfway through July, and by now you're likely in one of two camps: the side that's comfortable with Iggy Azalea's Fancy as the Song Of The Summer or the side that's declared this to be the worst Song Of The Summer we've ever endured.

We don't know what camp the mighty Weird Al Yankovic is in, but anything that divisive is too juicy a target for him to avoid during his equally mighty Eight Days of Al gimmick. Watch Weird Al Yankovic go Weird Al Borland for Handy. (Yahoo)

Let's talk about sex (tapes)

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Cameron Diaz and Jason Segel's chemistry can't save Sex Tape. CONTRIBUTED

Implausible porno. Cameron Diaz in her underwear, a newly slim Jason Segel and a clever Rob Lowe casting can't save this film's lacklustre libido

Richard: Mark, any movie with the word sex in the title and Cameron Diaz in her underwear and a newly slim Jason Segel in the all-together should be a lot sexier than Sex Tape is.

The first 20 minutes plays more like an attempt to break the world record for using the word "sex" in a movie than an actual story. Diaz and Segel talk about sex, have sex, then talk about it some more, but rather than being racy or slap-your-thigh funny it becomes tiresome. The only word used more often is "iPad," which is even less provocative.

Mark: Richard, this movie is one of the best Apple commercials I've seen in years. But it does have some laughs. I couldn't decide, though, if it was original yet flimsy or flimsy yet original.

I was glad the running time clocked in at a neat 90 minutes as it was wearing out its welcome fast.

That's mostly because Cameron Diaz' smokin' hot bod is naked only in the first half of the picture. She has a pretty good chemistry with Jason Segel, but Rob Lowe steals the show.

Considering his own past, it's a neat bit of stunt casting.

RC: The Robs are the best part of the movie. The iPad retrieval from Rosenbaum's mansion gives Rob Lowe (who knows a thing or two about sex tapes) a chance for some off-the-wall fun as the straight-laced executive with a wild side.

Rob Corddry's wide-eyed interest in his best friend's sex tape was amusing and felt like the most genuine thing in the movie.

I thought Diaz and Segel were OK, but I didn't buy into the movie's main joke for a second.

MB: Yes, well, talk about a manufactured crisis!

There's lots to pick apart here, especially the subplot involving Corddry's blackmailing teenage son. But there's some nifty dialogue, especially at the beginning of the movie, and a scene I liked at the porn server's with a cameo by a famous comic actor.

By the way, all those porn website titles they spiel off are real ones, or, umm, so I was told by the guy sitting next to me.

RC: Hey! I was sitting next to you. I take the fifth.

Unlike you, I hated the first section of the movie. I thought the least interesting part of the movie was the sex and the sex talk.

MB: No one will mistake this movie for the classic comedies of Preston Sturges.

The movie aims low and thereby exceeds expectations.

Not very demanding, but it is summer.

Synopsis

Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz are Jay and Annie, a married couple who try to spice things up in the bedroom by videotaping themselves working through the Joy of Sex page by page. All goes well until Jay forgets to delete the video and mistakenly posts their three-hour amateur porntacular on the cloud. With BFFs Robby (Rob Corddry) and Tess (Ellie Kemper), the embarrassed couple try and retrieve each of the "infected" iPads, especially the one in the hands of Hank Rosenbaum (Rob Lowe), the family-first CEO of the company that publishes Annie's G-rated mommy blog.

This is the role the Rock wrestled for

Dwayne 'The Rock' Johnson stars in Hercules, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Hercules. Dwayne Johnson says he's always been obsessed with Greek strongman

RICHARD CROUSE
scene@metronews.ca

Dwayne Johnson's first exposure to legendary strongman Hercules didn't come from mythology class, but from a legendary bodybuilder-turned-actor who played the divine Greek hero on screen twice.

"When I was a kid I remember being visually captivated by the Steve Reeves poster," says Johnson.

"He's breaking free of this pillar and chains. I didn't know the mythology back then but I knew the image. That image captivated me.

"When I was a kid I was always drawn to men who were able to accomplish things, whether they were big things or little things, but men who took care of business physically."

Years later as Johnson, then better known as wrestling superstar The Rock, was transitioning from the ring to the screen he thought his bulked up physique would make him the new Steve Reeves.

"When I got to Hollywood I spoke to executives and I brought up Hercules. Didn't have the clout to make anything happen back then. I have a little bit more these days though and I was able to make it happen."

The result of Johnson's lifelong dream is Hercules, an action adventure based on the graphic novel Hercules: The Thracian Wars and co-starring John Hurt, Ian McShane and model-turned-actress Irina Shayk.

"There's been so many iterations of Hercules over the years I wanted to create something different," he says.

"Hopefully epic and hopefully redefine him for our generation."

In the film, Hercules rejects his own mythology in an attempt to stay grounded, something Johnson understands.

"I have enjoyed a good amount of success and I'm very grateful for everything that I have," the bulky actor says.

"Like Hercules not buying into the myth, not buying into the story but just being aware of it, I'm very grateful for being who I am and making sure that I continue to approach every project and everything that I do as if it is going to be my last.

"There was a time when I was in Canada, playing for the CFL and sleeping on a mattress that I got from the garbage of a sex motel. I'll never forget it. True story. So, for me, those times are kind of in the forefront of my mind.

"The wolf is always scratching at the door. It's good to remember that. It's important."

Preview. Footage reveals Iron Man's Hulkbuster suit, new sibling superheroes

Iron Man's bulky Hulkbuster suit and a sibling pair of new superheroes in Quicksilver and Scarlet Witch are shown in unpolished Avengers: Age of Ultron footage ahead of the San Diego Comic-Con.

After the footage was shown to an exclusive audience in London as part of a promotional event for Guardians of the Galaxy, UK media listings magazine Radio Times made a record of what was seen on screen.

Tony Stark (Robert Downey Jr.) undergoes a double transformation when he equips his Hulkbuster armor: the get-up is "almost the size of the Hulk himself" and confirms that Iron Man and Hulk are to do battle in the 2015 film.

As far as Quicksilver is concerned, Marvel is taking a risk and will show fans untreated footage, not yet benefiting from the effects work required to turn Aaron Taylor-Johnson into a man of lightning speed.

Quicksilver's sister, Scarlet Witch, is to be played by Elizabeth Olsen, and in comic lore at least her superpowers mean that she can bend statistical probability to her will. In the film, at least for now, this translates to "mysterious reality warping powers" The San Diego Comic-Con is due to take place July 23-27, with the Marvel Studios panel. AFP

Diane Keaton sings a new tune

And So It Goes.
Veteran actress always wanted to become a singer and finally got her wish in latest role

RICHARD CROUSE
scene@metronews.ca

Michael Douglas and Diane Keaton star in And So It Goes, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Diane Keaton's latest film, the romance And So It Goes, brings the star back to her roots.

As a beginner, long before she won an Academy Award for Annie Hall, or starred in the controversial Looking for Mr. Goodbar or inspired romantic rivalry between her Reds leading men, Warren Beatty and Jack Nicholson, Keaton dreamed of being a singer.

"I had a fantasy of being a nightclub singer that I carried through even into my early 20s," she says.

"I sang a couple of gigs, as they call them, but I was not very good. I began to understand that I was not going to be a singer. I've always loved to sing but I'm aware of the limitations of my voice. It was always a disappointing voice. I took singing lessons for years, but it was a very small voice. It's worse than it ever was. It's smaller than ever. But I have this love of it. I love music. I love singing ballads and sad songs, it's just so much fun."

And sing she does in the new film, a romance co-starring Michael Douglas — "He couldn't be any more charming," she says — about Leah, a woman who gets a second chance at a career and love.

"I never thought I'd ever sing again. I had some songs intermittently in some movies but to have it come up again and have the possibility of singing four songs and one song all the way through was a dream come true."

Keaton describes Leah, a lounge singer who bursts into tears at the mere thought of her late husband, as a woman, "who has had a lovely life but has lost the love of her life. She's my age, in her late 60s."

The 68-year-old Oscar winner says playing Leah was "a joy," but adds, "getting old is a great levelling experience. You really do see the truth, which is that your expression and your goals don't really mean much in the grand scheme of things.

"With that in mind you start seeing life in a different way. You don't see it so much as the goals for the future; it's just now. You live in the moment, in the present. This is what you have.

"So I really feel you're more grateful, you're more filled with awe, you're more amazed because it is a huge, giant question mark this life we live in.

"It's a huge gift and you need to see yourself for what you are and appreciate what you have while you have it now."

Quoted

"Getting old is a great levelling experience. You really do see the truth, which is that your expression and your goals don't really mean much in the grand scheme of things."

Bob Saget sat right down and wrote a cleansing memoir

Full House rules.
Comedian gets real about tarnishing his Danny Tanner family-man image with dirty standup schtick

Something titillating occurs when the stand-up comedian who endeared himself to TV audiences in the 1990s as the wholesome patriarch on Full House tours the festival circuit after decades of freestyling his particular brand of silly-dirty humour.

"They do take whatever controlled substances as these events go, and that's when my name from the past comes into play," Bob Saget joked in a recent interview. "They go, 'Oh my god, you're Danny Tanner,' and then I go, 'Yes I am, please put your shirt down, miss.'"

Saget, 58, has pushed his career forward with crass laughs in the years since he also played the host on America's Funniest Home Videos. But when pressed on the drugs issue in relation to his performance this Saturday at the Pemberton Music Festival, north of Vancouver, it's his inner parent who responds.

"I don't condone it, I don't want to see anybody get hurt, I want everybody to have a good time," said the real-life father of three, noting he just wants his audience to have the best time possible.

Saget will share the Laugh Camp stage at the festival's relaunch with a gut-busting lineup of a dozen or so comedians that also includes Tom Green, Lisa Lampanelli and Norm Macdonald. Dozens of bands, including headliners Soundgarden and Kendrick Lamar will also perform this weekend.

Saget's hour-long set will be a "best of" showcase, he said, where he'll "scat" stories, rib the audience and perhaps make the crowd sing along with a tune he popularized at Montreal's Just For Laughs Festival. Over the past year, Saget has toured across the United States, Australia and six Canadian provinces.

This time he is also promoting his memoir, released in April, called Dirty Daddy: The Chronicles of a Family Man Turned Filthy Comedian. The account, he said, is "about as honest as I've ever been with anything."

It describes a life peppered with death: Four siblings, three uncles, Saget's father and, just before she had time to read the whole thing, his mother. Saget said he hopes the book underscores that no matter how bad life can get, comedy can be the salve.

"When there's humour in that conversation," Saget said, "it really does diffuse the moment. And it creates compassion, also, which can help a person feel like a person amidst some of the most horrific things that they go through."

When asked whether Saget, a man who has sought success through contrasting faces, understands himself now, he didn't joke.

"Oh, I definitely do," he said. "I'm a silly comedian. I'm not a dirty comedian as much as I am a silly comedian. I laugh at stuff that a 10-year-old enjoys."

Crass course in comeuppance

Saget intentionally sullied his image with roles in Entourage and The Aristocrats following the family friendly shows that made him a household name. He said the book wasn't so much an attempt to reinvent himself yet again as it was a "heart" exercise that was his immature way of "getting my comeuppance."

- His three adult daughters and their mother, from whom he is divorced, all loved the recounting, he said.
- "It was a little sketchy for (them) at first, because it was a shocker," he added, noting they expressed joy at forgotten memories and wonder over life details they never knew.
- "It was an outpouring for me, in my narcissistic writer's bubble. It was an empathetic kindness that I hadn't felt for a long time, because I laid myself out there.
- "That was the nicest part about it. Even my ex-wife said, 'Oh, I get you now. I understand that.'"

Cattrall makes comedy out of crisis

Mid-life misadventure. Sex and the City's Kim Cattrall tackles the uncomfortable issues of aging in her new series, Sensitive Skin

scene@metronews.ca

Years before Kim Cattrall found international stardom as Samantha Jones, the brash best friend of Carrie, Miranda and Charlotte on Sex and the City, she learned a valuable lesson from a Hollywood legend. The 24-year-old actress was starring opposite Jack Lemmon in Tribute, a film version of the Broadway show that earned Lemmon a Tony nomination.

Lemmon had dozens of credits, including classics like Some like It Hot and The Apartment under his belt and two Oscars on his mantelpiece at home.

"How do you have longevity?" she asked the veteran actor.

"Take things that scare the pants off you," he replied.

It's advice she took to heart, particularly when approaching her new project, Sensitive Skin for HBO Canada.

Don McKellar and Kim Cattrall star as a couple trying to stave off their midlife crisis in Sensitive Skin. HBO CANADA

"I think for me to bring this story to North America was the scariest thing," she says. "Hanging in there and really trusting my instincts because I doubted them sometimes. I put it on the shelf and I walked away but I kept coming back and I think the thing that kept me coming back was the fear of it.

"I could go on playing Samantha for the rest of my life but I wouldn't be very happy. I wouldn't be advancing in any way. This was really hard sometimes and it did scare me daily on the set. I never had children but I can imagine it's like having a child, or going through the gestation period. Instead of nine months it was almost nine years and you go through periods of real doubt and self-doubt."

Returning to television for the first time since Sex and the City, Cattrall plays Davina, a woman on the verge of a mid-life crisis who, along with her husband Al (Don McKellar), shakes the cobwebs off her suburban life by moving downtown.

"It's the change of the guard, isn't it? I'm starting to play characters who are of a certain age and it is a feeling of, 'Am I really ready for this?' Holding onto yesterday instead of embracing whatever this is," she says.

The show not only focuses on Davina and Al — "One of the things I'm most proud of is that you really believe Don and I are a couple," she says. — but also Toronto, the city they call home. She credits McKellar, who also directed the series, with capturing the look and feel of Hogtown.

"He's made Toronto look like the city it is," she says. "Which is very difficult to capture. Because he has lived there his whole life, we were shooting in neighbourhoods the crew didn't even know about. It's so diverse. The city is almost a character as well. We've really given Toronto a midlife crisis too."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

It's not Harry's style to embark on a solo career

NED EHRBAR
Metro in Hollywood

Calm down, kids. Harry Styles is not leaving One Direction to embark on a solo career. Not yet, at least.

"Harry has no plans to go solo," a source tells Radar Online. "Harry is very reliant on the guys and feels much more secure when with them. He is actually quite timid in person."

That's adorable and all, but now I'm starting to think that there might actually be something to the rumours and that this denial is just a ruse. After all, the British are masters at self-deprecation, and the more self-effacing they get the less you can believe them. Like when you offer an Englishman more cake and he says, "Oh, I couldn't possibly"? He could, in fact.

So if this "source" had just left it at Harry being comfortable in a group setting, that would have been fine — and definitely more than a little suggestive. But the whole timid thing? Red flag, man. He's pulling a Timberlake.

Sheryl Crow

Sheryl Crow having trouble finding an equal when it comes to marriage material

Sheryl Crow likes to be extra-sure before jumping into anything, which is why she's been in no rush to walk down the aisle.

"It's better to have three broken engagements than three divorces," she tells Good Housekeeping, poking fun at her own dating history.

So far as we know, she's only ever been engaged to Lance Armstrong, but she's also dated the likes of Eric Clapton and Owen Wilson.

"I had always gone out with guys who were highly successful, which would seem like it would put me at an equal level," she explains to the magazine.

"But what ends up happening is that one of you becomes smaller — and it was always me. It's always the woman. I mean, I don't know if it's always the woman, but I do think that sometimes in order for one person's light to shine, everyone else has to dim theirs."

Salad Spotlight.

Metro's week of lightening your plate ends with this seasonal Chicken, Watermelon, Feta and Cucumber Salad, which is perfect for outdoor dining

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

Watermelon and feta is always a winning combination.

The interplay of colours, the different textures, and the balance between sweet and salty is perfection.

Add cucumber, chicken and a cocktail for a great start to a relaxing summer afternoon.

Dressing

1. In a bowl, combine mayonnaise, Dijon mustard, white wine vinegar (or rice vinegar). Set aside.

Salad

1. In a large bowl, combine sliced or cubed chicken breast, arugula, diced watermelon, sliced fennel, sliced cucumber, chopped green onions, crumbled feta cheese, and sea salt and pepper. Divide the Chicken, Watermelon, Feta and Cucumber salad among four plates.

2. Drizzle with the vinaigrette over the salad. Season with salt and pepper.

Ingredients

Vinaigrette
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) mayonnaise
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) Dijon mustard
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) white wine vinegar or 1 tbsp (15 ml) rice vinegar

Salad
- 2 chicken breast halves, poached or grilled, sliced or cubed
- 3 cups (750 ml) arugula
- 2 cups (500 ml) watermelon, seeded and diced
- 1/2 fennel bulb, thinly sliced with a mandolin
- 1/2 English cucumber, unpeeled, cut into half slices
- 4 green onions, chopped
- 1/4 lb (115 g) feta cheese, crumbled
- Sea salt and pepper

In a wine rut? Do you keep pouring the same old pinot grigio or merlot? Well, it's time to start drinking outside the box and experiment with a new grape.

While there are hundreds of berries in the naked vineyard, a number are just shy of mass market popularity, which makes them ripe for discovery.

I'm thinking white fruit like verdejo and grüner veltliner, and reds like grenache (a.k.a. garnacha) and tempranillo.

Tempranillo is arguably wine's most stealth grape, having slipped under the radar of most Canadian consumers for decades.

A superstar in its native Spain, if you've had a red from its Rioja region you may have a taste for it.

Campo Viejo's 2011 Tempranillo ($14.45 - $19.79) used to be called Crianza (a nod to the juice having spent at least one year aging in oak barrels). Smooth and medium-bodied, it shows classic red berry and cherry flavours along with a lingering impression of cedar, spice and leather. Try with grilled burgers, paella and meat-laden pizzas. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Summer in a glass: Pink Strawberry & Rhubarb Sangria

Rhubarb and Strawberry Syrup

1. In a saucepan, bring all the ingredients to a boil and simmer for about 3 minutes, stirring frequently. Strain and keep only the syrup. Let cool and refrigerate until completely chilled, about 1 hour.

Sangria

1. In a pitcher, combine the rhubarb and strawberry syrup, rosé wine, soft drink, fruit and ice cubes. Serve the sangria very cold.

RICARDO

Ingredients

Strawberry and Rhubarb Syrup
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) water
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) sugar
- 1 lime, sliced
- 2 cups each (500 ml) fresh strawberries cut into quarters and sliced fresh rhubarb

Sangria
- 2 cups (500 ml) cold rosé wine
- 1 cup (250 ml) cold soda (like 7 Up or Sprite)
- Fresh strawberries, halved
- Thinly sliced rhubarb, lengthwise
- Ice cubes, to taste

Art Battle Nationals

Date: July 26
Location: Mattamy Athletic Centre, 50 Carlton St.

More than 600 painters have participated in 27 Canadian cities to get to this point: the final paint-off. Twenty extremely talented artists will create original pieces of artwork in front of a live audience whose vote will determine the best live painter in Canada. Every painting created will also be available for sale via silent auction — this is like investing in genius.

Rogers Cup

Date: August 2-10
Location: Rexall Centre

Sure, it's not for another two weeks, but in case you somehow missed Wimbledon, Milos Raonic is kind of a big deal. He'll be bringing the best serve in the game to Toronto for what we hope can be a replay of last year's final appearance (though one more win would be nice too). Joining him will be the rest of the 10 best in men's tennis — get your tickets now.

Bruno Mars

Date: July 27
Location: ACC

Bruno loves you Just The Way You Are. And considering nearly half a billion people (yes, BILLION) have watched his video, we're pretty sure the world loves him too. Add the fact that Pharrell will be joining Mr. Mars on stage and this might just be the happiest concert of the entire year… sorry, we had to.

Toronto's Festival of Beer

Date: July 25-27
Location: Bandshell Park, Exhibition Place

The name says it all, doesn't it? If you've got a predilection for barley pops, this is the event for you. With more than 300 beer brands on-site, this is like the best tap selection you've ever seen — on steroids. It's not just the brews that should bring you out though; look for performances by K-os, The Trews, and Matthew Good to keep the event moving.

Beaches Jazz Festival

Date: July 18-27
Location: Woodbine Park

This 10-day event is the best place in the city to catch some free-flowing rhythm. Whether you're into ragtime, blues, swing, or any other kind of jazz, they'll all be represented at The Beaches 26th Annual International Jazz Festival. Listening is always free, but having a huge collection of Toronto's gourmet food trucks on-site won't hurt either.

BIG On Bloor Festival

Date: July 19-20
Location: Bloor St. between Dufferin and Lansdowne

It's not a coincidence they call it BIG on Bloor. When you shut down one of the city's most important streets you don't do it for anything less than capital letters. This two-day festival will feature food, drink, art, and music.

Rory looking to end unfortunate Fridays

Golf. After starting strong, 'Boy Wonder' must prove he can follow up strong at British Open

Rory McIlroy of Northern Ireland plays out of a bunker on the 16th hole during the first day of the British Open at the Royal Liverpool golf club on Thursday in Hoylake, England. PETER MORRISON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rory McIlroy had everything go his way Thursday in the British Open.

A lovely summer day in England with abundant sunshine and minimal wind allowed him to attack Royal Liverpool. He made half his six birdies on the par 5s and kept bogeys off his card. And on the day Tiger Woods made a promising return, McIlroy took the lead with a 6-under 66, his best score in nearly two years at a major.

Now if he can only find a way to get to the weekend.

McIlroy either set himself up for a good run at the claret jug or another dose of Friday failures. In what already has been an unusual year for golf, no trend is more mysterious than Boy Wonder going overnight from awesome to awful.

Six times in his past eight tournaments, he has had a nine-hole score of 40 or higher on Friday that has taken him out of the mix.

"It's not like I've shot good scores in first rounds and haven't backed them up before," McIlroy said. "I'm used to doing that. I just haven't done it recently. We'll see what tomorrow brings and what weather it is and try and handle it as best I can.

"Hopefully, it's just one of those things and I'm able to turn it around tomorrow."

Woods also would like to keep moving in the right direction. He got off to a troubling start with two quick bogeys, nearly made another one on the fourth hole, and then looked like a 14-time major champion when he ran off five birdies in six holes toward the end of his round for a 69.

Not bad for a guy who had back surgery March 31, who started taking full swings only a month ago and who had not played in a major in 11 months.

"It felt good to be back out there competing again," Woods said.

World No. 1 Adam Scott finished with a 68 but was the only player in the top 10 who played in the afternoon when the wind made Hoylake tougher. Scott was slowed only by two bogeys on the back nine.

Punching in at the British Open

"I'm not some big-time Charlie who is going to win — obviously I'd love to win — I was there to enjoy myself, soak it all up."

John Singleton who wound up shooting a 6-over 78, having been even par after 11 holes. On a typical Thursday at 10:30 a.m., Singleton would be making paints and varnishes in a resin factory. On this one-off occasion, Singleton was 10 minutes down the road at the British Open at Royal Liverpool. His boss closed the factory and bought co-workers tickets to watch Singleton on his big day.

Jays vs. Rangers

J.P. set to return to Rogers Centre

The Texas Rangers have recalled opening day catcher J.P. Arencibia from Triple-A Round Rock and may use the former Blue Jays backstop at first base this weekend in Toronto.

As expected, Texas activated catcher Geovany Soto from the 60-day disabled list Thursday. The team also brought back Arencibia and designated first baseman Carlos Pena for assignment.

Dazed and confused

"Shortly after the blow, Kramer came to me asking, 'Ref, is this the final?' I thought he was joking and made him repeat the question, and then he said, 'I need to know if this is really the final.' When I said, 'Yes,' he concluded, 'Thanks, it was important to know that.'"

Germany midfielder Christoph Kramer was disoriented and confused after taking a heavy blow to the head early in the World Cup final, according to the match's referee Nicola Rizzoli. Scan the image with your Metro News app for an update on FIFA's latest rankings.

Ottawa's long wait for CFL about to end

Ottawa is like an expectant parent waiting for the birth of a child.

Along with the excitement, nerves are on edge because when there's something this special ready to burst upon the scene, there are fears that something could go wrong.

The CFL is back in Ottawa with the Redblacks set to host the Toronto Argonauts Friday (7 p.m., TSN) in the team's inaugural game at TD Place Stadium.

It will be the first time the CFL has played in Ottawa since 2005.

The stadium, which was going through its finishing touches on Thursday, will host a sell-out crowd of 24,000. In attendance will be Prime Minister Stephen Harper, who is among 17,000 season-ticket holders.

Owner Jeff Hunt said that he hopes that if there are glitches, like a beer tap not working or problems in a washroom stall, that people will give the team a "mulligan."

"Seven years ago, we didn't know if this day would ever come," Hunt said.

Stability at last?

The Ottawa Rough Riders died after the 1996 season and the city tried to revive football as the Renegades in 2002, but they too went to their grave in early 2006.

Watch out - it's a meteor falling, Hinchcliffe!

Canada's James Hinchcliffe in pit lane prior to a race practice in June. His season has been plagued by collisions, mechanical issues and even a concussion from flying debris. CHRIS TROTMAN/GETTY IMAGES

Bad luck throughout.
Sole Canadian in IndyCar still manages to joke about a most unfortunate season

James Hinchcliffe didn't know how terrible he's been in his hometown race.

He knew it's been ugly, last year in particular was embarrassing for him, but four years into his IndyCar career the best Hinchcliffe has finished at the Honda Indy Toronto is eighth.

"Is that the best I've done is eighth? I knew it was bad, I didn't realize it was that bad," said Hinchcliffe on Thursday. "How does it feel? Yeah, with those stats … great. I mean, who wouldn't be excited?"

Hinchcliffe is quick to point out how excited he is to return to the track he credits with getting him involved in racing. But all the love the Oakville, Ont., native shows the 85-lap, 2.81-kilometre street course at Exhibition Place hasn't been reciprocated with checkered flags.

The 27-year-old Andretti Autosport driver could use some love. His season entering the doubleheader this weekend has been plagued by disappointing results, mechanical issues, collisions and even a concussion after being hit by debris in Indianapolis.

Hinchcliffe hasn't lacked for speed. He's started second in 5-of-12 races so far, but hasn't finished on the podium. He's been close — he might have won in Houston if he hadn't pitted late and got stuck behind yellow flags — but with six races left Hinchcliffe is starting to wonder what else might happen before the season ends.

"Running for a podium in Indy GP and somebody smoked me in the head with a piece of a wing. I mean, like why does that happen? Who does that happen to? It's just been one of those years," said Hinchcliffe.

Good spirits

"It can't get any worse than that … now I'll get hit by a meteor or something."

James Hinchcliffe

Championship, anyone?

Dixon may pounce again

When Scott Dixon arrived at Toronto last year there wasn't any reason to believe he was about to turn his season around.

The 33-year-old Kiwi swept the Honda Indy Toronto doubleheader, going from fourth overall in the driver standings to second and eventually a third career championship.

He enters this year's doubleheader in a familiar place: behind his rivals in the points race but one weekend from contention.

"That's your goal, but kind of the fun part at that point — and similar to this year — you're not really thinking about championship. You're just really thinking about winning races," he said Thursday. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Even an ambitious Aries needs to take it easy once in a while and the planets are now urging you to relax. Spend time with your loved ones today. They would like to see more of you.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Your task for the next 24 hours is o release all that pent-up energy that's inside you in a way that does you good while not harming other people.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Anything of a creative nature will go well for you today – and you could make money from it too. Your number one aim is to enjoy what you're doing.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
According to the planets you're not in the mood to make much of an effort, but that's OK. There is no cosmic law that says you must be busy at all times.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Like everyone else, you have weaknesses and the planets warn that one of them — pride most likely — could be your undoing. Just because everything is going well does not mean you can let down your guard.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
If you need assistance today ask for it, because you don't have to do it on your own. You have friends who will be more than happy to help you out.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Decide which is more important: love or ambition. You can, of course, have both but if you are wise you will put personal happiness first and professional success second.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You seem to be pushing yourself harder than ever but will achieve more in the long-term if you balance your physical and mental efforts with plenty of relaxation.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
There is no need to impose deadlines on what you're doing. The more pressure you put on yourself, the more likely it is you will make a mistake.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You are in a romantic mood and that's good. The only danger is that you will put the object of your affection on too high a pedestal and feel devastated when they tumble.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
A loved one will ask you to cover up for them today and you'll be happy to do so. You don't want to see them get hurt but shouldn't they be learning from their own mistakes?

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You will feel affectionate today. It won't last, but while it does see how many good deeds you can do for loved ones.
